officer, once publicly proclaimed the president to be the greatest exponent of the art of advertising the world has known. The country has been told and not allowed to forget that, in his opinion, his energies have been devoted to the accomplishment of many high purposes, and that if his work is yet incomplete it is so only because his undertakings were too vast to be carried to success during his term of office. "My policies" must continue. The pretense is that the fight must go on under the leader designated by him until the last foe shall have surrendered or lies inglorious in the dust. The nomination of his would-be successor was largely accomplished by the use of official patronage and coarse machine methods, and has delighted the chief apostle of strenuosity, and, at the same time, has not perturbed the conscience of the one-time civil service reformer, now the boss, an adept in the bestowal of advice to the public and forgetful of all his resounding moral commonplaces. No fair-minded American could read the daily accounts of the recent political doings at Chicago without feeling mortification and regret; mortification that the president should have so abused his power in dictating to a great party his choice of a successor, and regret that that party should have submitted so cowardly to a humiliation that was as manifest as it was degrading.

Mr. Clayton called attention to the failure of the Republican convention to insert a plank forbidding campaign contributions, quoted President Roosevelt's condemnation of the practice in his message of December, 1905. Injunctions and contempt of court were treated vigorously and several quotations from the message of President Roosevelt were given to show that the president had abandoned at Chicago the policies he had so vigorously urged in his message, adding:

"It is important to note that the act of June 2, 1886, was passed at the first session of the first congress that met under the first Democratic administration after the civil war and there labor received its first recognition from the government. One Republican administration had succeeded another for twenty-four years, and not one act was passed in the interest of labor or in acknowledgment of its right to fair and equal treatment. The Republicans enacted a tariff which enhanced the price of products that labor had made and capital owned, and they pretended to do this with a view of securing for labor higher wages. What they gave, however, was to the capitalist, and they trusted him to divide. That the increased profits of protected employers have made them able to pay the laboring man higher wages no one can doubt, but it remains for the saving grace of Almighty God so to tone their hearts as to make them willing to pay the higher wages."

"Among the contributions that went to make up the monument that this great man, Grover Cleveland, built in the respect and affection of his countrymen, few are more striking than his almost instant recognition, as evidenced by the act of 1886, of the same and just demands of labor on the lawmaking power. Under him Democracy blazed the way and now remains the unflinching champion of every sound reform in this direction. Immunity from law we promise nobody, immunity from oppression from its very infancy the Democratic party has been dedicated to establish and secure."

The Tariff.

"The president and his party declare that a pre-election revision of the tariff would be unwise. This assertion has been repeated in advance of every election since the enactment of the Dingley law, and surely the country will not again be deceived by Republican promises to revise the tariff after the election. Their appeal to the people is this, 'give us another chance to make you a promise and the promise will be made.'"

"What does protection mean? Under the Republican policy of protection to the people, the consumers, while paying a little over $300,000,000 per year into the treasury through import duties of foreign goods, pay over $1,250,000,000 a year in the enhanced price of home produced goods. Our domestic manufactures exceed our total imports by ten to one and they are nearly all protected. It is safe to say that the people pay at least $5 to the already wealthy beneficiaries of protectionism for every dollar that is paid into the treasury. Behind the wall of high protection, which in some cases is altogether prohibitive, the trusts levy enormous tribute on the people. This has amounted to not less than $10,000,000,000 in the last decade, not counting the amount paid to support the government. This money has come from the pockets of the farmer, the mechanic, the merchant, and the professional man and the laborer, and has been poured into the coffers of the protected classes. More than two-thirds of the capital that derives benefit from protectionism belongs to the trusts. The Democrats will revise the tariff downward and in the interest of the tax payers, who are always forgotten by the Republican party. There must be revision and a gradual reduction of the tariff by the friends of the common good, and not by the beneficiaries of its abuses, who justify use of the impost taxing power for the chief purpose of conferring privilege and profit upon the few at the expense of the many."

Trusts

"It is the shortest of steps from the tariff to the trusts. Let it be denied if they care to deny it, that the tariff is the real mother of the trusts. The president has made great pretense of destroying trusts. Let him tell of the result. In a message delivered to congress he said: 'The department of justice has for the last four years devoted more attention to the enforcement of anti-trust legislation than any thing else. Much has been accomplished; particularly marked has been the moral effect of the prosecution; but it is increasingly evident that there will be a very insufficient beneficial result in the way of'

GOMPERS ARGUES

TALKS FOR LABOR PLANK AND SAYS REPUBLICAN CONVENTION THREW HIM DOWN.

Congressman Hobson Appears Before Committee and Turns Loose the Dogs of War.

Denver, July 8.—The committee on resolutions of the Democratic national convention will not report to the convention until Thursday. At 1 o'clock this morning the sub-committee which is drafting the platform adjourned until 9 a. m. today, at the suggestion of Senator Stone of Missouri. The full committee was instructed to assemble at 5 p. m. today, at which time the sub-committee expects to be able to report. The convention will be asked when adjournment is taken this afternoon to meet at 10 o'clock on Thursday, and it is the plan to have the report ready for presentation at that time, with the idea of having it disposed of by 12 o'clock, noon.

Denver, July 8.—In pursuance of the wish expressed by William J. Bryan, Governor Haskell of Oklahoma was selected as chairman of the resolutions committee of the national Democratic convention. The committee then decided to entrust the details of the preparation of the platform to a sub-committee of seventeen members to be appointed by the chair, but before these appointments were announced the full committee listened to arguments in support of various planks which will be offered for adoption. The first hearing was on the subject of the improvement of the inland waterways, and on this subject arguments were made by Congressman Ransdell of Louisiana, president of the recent national rivers and harbors convention; H. T. Clarke of Omaha and Governor Broward of Florida. Broward took the position that a liberal pronouncement in favor of the improvement of the water courses of the interior would prove the means of obtaining many votes in such states as New York, Illinois and Ohio, and therefore urged the proposition as a matter of practical politics. Mr. Clarke asked for the approval of a plan for the improvement of the waterways which contemplates the issue of $500,000,000 in bonds for that purpose.

Mr. Ransdell contended that as the government controls the rivers and lakes it should improve them, and he asked for the endorsement of a plan looking to a much more liberal appropriation of money than is now made in this interest. He said that the cost of transportation of the Great Lakes is only one-tenth of the cost of transportation by rail.

Richmond Pearson Hobson, congressman from Alabama, presented a plea for the increase of the navy, and in doing so declared that this country is in imminent danger of war with Japan. He predicted that this war would take place during the next presidential administration and believing that the Democratic party will then be in power, he said that if it did not make proper preparations by additions to the navy the party would be ground to powder. He declared that Japan is covetous, not of the Philippines alone, but of Hawaii and our own Pacific coast country. Regarding Japan as a great fighting machine, he said that it was absolutely necessary that proper provision should be made to guard our interests against that power. Mr. Hobson said that he based his statements upon inside information.

The labor question was next brought up for discussion. Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation of Labor; John Mitchell and other labor leaders were present.

They presented for consideration the suggestions which were tendered to the resolutions committee of the Chicago convention, and asked that they be incorporated in the platform.

Addressing the committee in support of the resolutions, Mr. Gompers spoke of their failure to secure recognition at Chicago.

"We asked them for bread and we received a stone." The Republican injunction declaration he declared to be an endorsement of the "existing abuse of law." He asked the Democrats to "either leave the subject entirely out of the platform or adopt a real remedy for the wrongs complained of." He reviewed the decision of the supreme court in the battles case holding labor unions to be trusts or illegal combinations in restraint of trade under the anti-trust law, and made an earnest plea for an amendment of that law. He declared that it had never been contemplated that the Sherman law should apply to those who toil, but that on the contrary it was intended to control combinations dealing with the products of labor. On the subject of injunctions Mr. Gompers said the laboring man merely asked to be regarded as equals. "We do not ask for special privileges," he said, "but merely for justice and equality." He contended that the law in its ordinary operation was sufficient to protect the public against the crimes of laboring people.

Mr. Gompers said that if the Democratic party would assist in rectifying these two wrongs it would make it possible for labor to stand with it. Labor could wait for the other reforms suggested. "If you will do what we ask you will electrify our hearts," he said in conclusion, "and we will be with you."

When Mr. Gompers had concluded George Fred Williams of Massachusetts asked him how far the principles he had been arguing for were endorsed by organized labor. The reply was that they had been endorsed by convention after convention of organized labor and that every branch of labor had adopted resolutions urging the reforms.

Mr. Gompers said the planks also represented the views of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Williams called Mr. Gompers' attention to the absence in the planks he had submitted of any reference to

CLAYTON IS CHAIRMAN.

Denver, July 8.—The committee on permanent organization met and on motion of Governor Folk of Missouri, selected Henry D. Clayton of Alabama as permanent chairman of the convention. For the other officers, temporary selections were made permanent, with the addition of E. Y. Mitchell of Missouri, who was named as an assistant secretary.

"notice" in connection with the issuance of temporary injunctions. Mr. Gompers contended that he had argued against any use of preliminary injunctions in labor disputes.

Senator Stone of Missouri asked Mr. Gompers whether the original injunction plank purporting to have been drawn by President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft, but which the publican convention refused to adopt, would be satisfactory to organized labor.

"The American Federation of Labor not only does not want that declaration, but would be opposed to it," was the reply.

"For the 'bank of the Republicans' asked Mr. Stone.

"We are opposed to that," was the reply.

Governor Haskell called upon John Mitchell, the labor leader and prospective vice presidential candidate, to address the committee.

Mr. Mitchell said he had purposely refrained from speaking because the question was one needing forceful and impassioned discussion, and his personal experience was such as almost to preclude him from such impassioned discussion. While general regarded as a law-abiding citizen, he was at this moment precluded from traveling in some of the states of the Union. He could not go into some portions of West Virginia without conflict with the fear of the count.

He declared himself a Democrat and in a general way urged the committee to prepare such a platform as could receive the support of labor.

At this point Chairman Haskell announced the appointment of the sub-committee, as follows: the number being nineteen instead of seventeen, as originally proposed: Haskell, Oklahoma, chairman; Martin, Alabama; Thomas, Georgia; Alschuler, Illinois; Lamb, Indiana; Sullivan, Iowa; Beckham, Kentucky; Williams, Massachusetts; Noel, Mississippi; Stone, Missouri; Walch, Montana; Brown, Nebraska; Newlands, Nevada; Parker, New York; Garber, Ohio; Luman, Oregon; Pettigrew, South Dakota; Swanson, Virginia (acting for Donnell).

Five States File Petitions.

Denver, July 8.—The credentials committee met in Fraternity hall, but was delayed for some time in beginning its work because of the lack of a stenographer. Casper G. Callahan of Holyoke, Mass., was elected chairman and D. H. Linebush of Atoka, Okla., was made secretary.

Five states and the District of Columbia gave notice of contest and each was limited to thirty minutes. The state notices were received from Pennsylvania, Idaho, Illinois, Ohio and New York. It was decided that all committeemen whose states were involved in the contests should be excluded from the room until adjudication was made in the fights in which they were interested.

LEGLESS BOY'S EXPLOIT.

Cripple, Also Minus Part of an Arm, Rescued Boys From Drowning.

With stumps for legs, a stump for his right arm and his left hand minus several fingers, Joe Gilligan, eighteen years old, swam to the rescue of two boys in the gravel pit pond, Morris Plains, N. J., and saved their lives the other afternoon.

Alexander Patterson and Augustus Monahan, twelve years old each, were in an old boat on the little pond near the Lackawanna railroad tracks at Morris Plains. The pond is about ten feet deep at its greatest depth, and it was at this point the boys upset the boat while playing. Patterson could not swim, and he clung to Monahan around the neck. Before he was dragged under Monahan cried lustily for help.

Gilligan was sitting with other boys under the shade of a tree, but out of sight of the pond. He had been showing his friends the artificial limbs his parents had procured to ease his afflictions. He had unstrapped the limbs when he heard the cry for help. Not stopping to put them on, for in the years he had been without them he had learned to run on his stumps of legs and his one good arm, Gilligan hustled to the pond, crying:

"Hold fast! I'm coming!"

Plunging in, he swam to the spot where the boys were struggling, grasped the two lads and pushed them apart. He then swam with one hand and pushed Patterson ashore. Returning, Gilligan went after Monahan, who was sinking. The cripple also pushed him ashore safely, and the two boys, grateful to their rescuer, carried him to his home, where he received dry clothing.

Gilligan ten years ago was run over by a trolley car in Brooklyn. He lost one leg above the knee and the other below the knee, his right arm was taken off at the elbow and three fingers from his left hand. He learned to swim a few years ago and has joined with the boys of the neighborhood in their games, even playing baseball after a fashion of his own.

OHIO BANKERS

Tell How Money Escapes From Taxation.

Investments Made in Non-Taxable Bonds—Why Taxation Amendment Should Be Adopted.

In response to letters of inquiry about withdrawal of deposits from Ohio banks to avoid taxation, bankers have made answers as follows:

"I do not think that there has been to exceed ten thousand dollars change from the tax assessment in this bank this year. I have, however, in the past been connected with an institution whereby the withdrawals at tax assessment time would aggregate in the neighborhood of one hundred thousand dollars. While this is not the information you were looking for, it is along the line that you are working, and I, like yourself, know the effect of it, especially in the money centers."

"As far as we are able to judge, we have had no withdrawals. We do not think that a law to exempt money from taxation as suggested in your plan will meet with the approval of our citizens."

"We did sell $17,000 in non-taxable bonds (Ohio). None of this money was on deposit with us except $600. The $17,000 came in from outside; $8,000 was taken out of a safety deposit box in our vault. I presume this $17,000 was changed around to avoid tax."

"The amount of such withdrawals was about $5,000, out of a total deposit of about $118,000. Wish to say, however, that many of our depositors do not consider it necessary to reduce their deposit account, simply containing themselves by failing to list the full amount of such deposits."

"During the year quite an amount has been invested in non-taxable municipal bonds, and in United States bonds. These investments were, in every case, made to avoid taxes. And other investments are made that are taxable, but not returned. In our town the rate is a little over 3 per cent. Reality is assessed at about one-third to one-fifth of its value, making the rate equivalent to about 1 per cent, while money is taken at its full face, making the rate a little over 3 per cent. As long as this lasts money will not be returned, and people can not be blamed for not making proper returns. If the taxes were just and equal, most of it would be returned. I think really should be assessed at about 40 per cent of its true value, and money should be taxed at not to exceed 1 per cent for any and all purposes, with heavy penalty for not making proper returns."

"In our community the rule is that between January 1st and April 1st most of the investments held, such as notes and mortgages, are paid off and reinvested. During the last few years this reinvestment has to a large extent been in non-taxable bonds. I believe that some revision of our tax laws should be made, and if I could be of any service along that line I would be pleased to have you call upon me."

"We attribute it to the desire to escape taxation that $10,000 was withdrawn from our bank during the week previous to assessment day. Our average deposits are about $115,000."

"We are heartily in favor of the proposed taxation amendment and hope that it will be adopted."

"I beg to advise that the withdrawals of deposits during assessment week and because of the assessment period, was a considerable amount, considering the small amount of deposits a small bank like us would naturally have. I would estimate the amount at between $15,000 and $20,000, and I think it is a custom that is practiced throughout the state. I don't see why your plan is not a good one."

"Our deposits run down during assessment week in each year from $40,000 to $50,000. As our deposits average $300,000, the percentage would be from 12 to 15 per cent."

"If tax inquirers are allowed to inspect bank books it might mean ruin, as it might be impossible to call in enough loans to meet the drain on deposits. We are therefore very much interested in having the laws on taxes adjusted with justice, and in a spirit of fairness."

"The investment of money prior to tax listing day in non-taxable securities, amounts with us to several hundred thousand dollars annually."

"We had invested in bonds during the month of March for the purpose of avoiding taxes, in round numbers, $35,000.00, about 10 per cent of our deposits."

UNIFORM RULE OF TAXATION IMPRACTICABLE.

Mr. F. A. Duthick, Master Ohio State Grange:

"My Dear Sir:—I believe that the uniform rule on property valuations is impracticable, causing deception and therefore leading to immorality, and not as productive as a tax system adjusted to meet existing conditions. State constitutions should leave the collection of taxes under broad laws to the State legislatures, aided by expert tax commissions. Sincerely yours, W. M. Hays, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C."

VOCAL FIREWORKS.

French Pyrotechnic Invention Which Cries Out "Vive la Republique!"

Fireworks which not only please the eye, but are capable also of reproducing patriotic speeches, were the subject of a special communication read the other day before the French Academy of Sciences in Paris.

The inventors of these vocal fireworks are Georges and Gustave Laudet, who have been working upon the system for three years. By an arrangement of different explosives they are now able to produce both vowels and consonants.

A railroad cartridge of their design will be able to cry "Stop!" and a set piece for the 14th of July will emit "Vive la Republique!"

A spitout under the lion's throat is the outlet.

TIME HAS COME FOR THE CITY TO FILL THE CANAL

Now that all source of water supply for the canal through the city has been cut off by the collapsing of the old aqueduct, the time is certainly ripe for action on the part of the city towards filling up this unsanitary ditch.

The objection always offered that the filling in of the canal would deprive numerous factories along its banks of good water, is now down and out. The three or more plants paying water rentals will now be compelled to use city water. Hence there is absolutely no existing excuse why the city should not act.

Furthermore, whether the filthy, disease breeding ditch is filled in immediately or not, some action should be taken to prevent the stagnant water from imperiling the health of the community. It has been suggested that oil be poured over the surface of the water for sanitary purposes. It has been the practice of scientists and is recommended by them as a safeguard against disease where stagnant water is found. The city should take action immediately.

REPUBLICAN PREDICTION.

The Sandusky Register, published by Mack Brothers, is intensely Republican and quite as intensely pro-Forker. The Register is noted as a newspaper with ideas and its individuality cannot be questioned. The guarantee of revolt, should any further humiliation be heaped on the senior senator by the Republican bosses, is thrown down in the following vigorous language by the Register:

"We will make a prediction and let our readers store it away in their memories. Our prediction is that if the next General Assembly is Republican there will be enough Republicans in that body, when they get together on joint ballot, to prevent the choice of any other Republican than Forker to succeed Forker. They may not have enough votes to nominate him in the caucus, but they will have votes enough to prevent any other Republican from being nominated and made the unanimous choice of the Republican members of the General Assembly, and we will make another prediction, that if the fight against Forker is continued by the bosses the next General Assembly will be Democratic and a Democrat will succeed Forker."

BUCKEYE LAKE PARK.

Miss Lejre, the darling little woman who nearly lost her life on the "Somersault of Death" at Buckeye Lake park Monday evening, made the ride successfully Tuesday evening. The auto in which she met with the accident Monday, was carefully repaired and reported in safe condition for her next ride. The feat was watched by many extra park visitors drawn to the scene by the feature attraction.

If You Were A Chemist,

And analysed a cake of P. & G. Naphtha Soap, you would KNOW how good it is.

But—you're not a chemist and the only way to find out how good P. & G. Naphtha Soap is, is to try it.

We want you to do so.

If "P. & G." is as good as we say it is, you will continue to use it.

If it isn't, you won't.

But, be sure to read and follow the directions on the inside of the wrapper. That is important. For this reason: "P. & G." is not ordinary soap. And it should not be used in the ordinary way.

5 cents a cake.

HISTORIC

Old Aqueduct Fell
With a Crash
Tuesday

INSPECTOR TOO LATE

No Instructions Given as to Disposition of Obstruction

Aqueduct Was Built About 1862
—Many Forgotten Incidents
Recalled by Accident.

The aqueduct of the Ohio canal which conveyed the water over the bed of the Raccoon creek, is probably a thing of the past. The middle span gave way Tuesday afternoon about 3 o'clock with a thundering crash. As the children of the neighborhood often play around the canal at this point it was lucky that none were on the structure when it gave way.

The north side of the woodwork is still resting on the piers, but the other side is deeply sunk in the bed of the creek below. It seems to the casual observer, that if a rise should come in the waters of the creek, that part of the city lying above the obstruction would be in danger, but Mr. Samuel Brown, the supervisor of the canal at this point, stated to the Advocate that in his opinion the waters would wash the timbers out before any damage was sustained by property. As the canal water receded the small boy got busy after the luckless fish and many nice ones were secured.

The canal, since being virtually abandoned, has been a nuisance to the residents of the city in many ways, but it furnished the softest of water for steam boiler use, and many of our manufacturers along the line that is drained, will sorely miss it.

Mr. Harry Morris of the Board of Public Works, who was expected here Tuesday to inspect the aqueduct or account of its reported dangerous condition, arrived only in time to view the wreck, and then left the city early Wednesday. Mr. Brown, the supervisor, states that he left no orders as to what was to be done as to rebuilding or removing the wreck from the creek bed, but from a sanitary point of view it is to be hoped that radical measures will be promptly taken to either get the water back or give the city the right to the land occupied by the canal, so that something can be done to abate a long existing nuisance.

The passing of this old public work is another link in the chain of the state of Ohio's neglect of her property in allowing her great water ways to fall into decay, and many of our older citizens who remember the old canal in the busy, bygone days, and who visited the scene today, were full of reminiscences of the happenings along the former great business highway. It was the commercial highway from the east to the middle west, and in view of the recent culmination of railway legislation it would seem that it was a great error of the legislators to have ever allowed the canal to fall into disuse.

An enormous traffic was enjoyed in the old days and much money was made by the boatmen, and as a social feature the captain of a canal boat, particularly a packet boat, was a big man in his community.

When the canal was constructed, Licking county was the center of the early activities, for the work was started near this city, and all the aqueducts and lock-near here were worked on simultaneously, making Newark and vicinity a very busy scene.

As near as can be ascertained at the present time, the first spadeful of earth for the excavation was taken from the bed of the canal at Licking Summit, a point 150 feet south of where the granite feeder entered. This is about four miles west of the city.

The opening of the canal took place on the 4th of July, 1825, and was celebrated with great pomp and ceremony.

Governor Clinton of New York, was present on invitation of the commissioners, as were also many other notables. The New York executive dug the first spadeful of the rich Ohio earth, then passed the spade to Governor Morrow, of Ohio, who raised the second spadeful. Then ensued a struggle, in good humor, as to who should dig the next dirt, and Captain Ned King, who was there in command of a militia company, was the next lucky excavator.

Governor Tom Allen, then a raw youth, was there too, in command of a company of soldiers, and did his part well in the ceremonies. In all, it was a time of great rejoicing and the canal for years fulfilled in its value to the country all the expectations of even the most enthusiastic minds as to its problematical good to the country's interest.

THOSE EMPLOYEES
AT NEW WATER WORKS PLANT

In an interview regarding the publication, in Tuesday's Advocate, of the discovery of four men being held on the city pay roll by the delays of the contracting company at the water works plant, Mr. M. M. Taylor, of the Board of Public Service, said:

"The two engineers and two firemen referred to in the article in yesterday's Advocate, and who have been on the payroll of the city since May 1st, originally went to work at the plant for the purpose of familiarizing themselves with the operation of the engines and pumps in anticipation of the turning over of the plant to the city within ten days from May 1st, as promised by the contracting company. These men have been kept there since that time by the delay of the contractors in completing the plant, but they have been employed by the city most of the time in assisting in labor incidental to rectifying mistakes by the contractors and engineering company and other work for which the city would have had to pay other men had these four not been there."

Mr. Taylor manifests great disappointment at the unexpected delay on the part of the water works contracting companies. Many mistakes have been made which seem to be the cause of these unexpected delays and Mr. Taylor seems free to state that these mistakes are largely the fault of the consulting engineers employed by the city.

BRYAN KEEPS EAR TO TICKER

IS IN CONSTANT TOUCH WITH CONVENTION HALL IN DENVER.

News From the Convention Did Not Prevent Him From Taking Interest in Alfalfa Crop.

Lincoln, Neb., July 8.—No business of a political nature was transacted at Fairview, the number of visitors being small. Mr. Bryan, however, managed to spend a busy day.

His day began early and before his breakfast was completed the special wire between his office and Denver was pouring in telegrams which required replies. Although there has been a permanent telegraph office established in a cottage in close proximity to the Bryan home for convention purposes, a special wire was run to his office, and at his desk, near which the telegraph operator had been placed, Mr. Bryan spent most of his time until the Denver convention adjourned.

Visiting delegations and calls of personages high in the councils of the party during the past five days had given the Democratic leader but little opportunity to read his voluminous correspondence, and much of his time was devoted to that duty. With his confidential stenographer he went over his mail, stopping only to make reply to the numerous telegrams which were placed on his desk during the early part of the day.

To persistent inquiries as to whether he would go to the Denver convention, Mr. Bryan stated that at present he had no thought of doing so, and knew of no contingency which might arise to take him to Denver.

"You cannot tell what the future will bring forth," he said, "but I know now of nothing which will take me to the convention city."

Mr. Bryan watched the convention closely and those bulletins reporting occasions which brought forth applause from the big Denver gathering were read with evident satisfaction and contented smiles, but not with looks of surprise.

News from the convention did not prevent him, however, from taking a lively interest in the harvesting of his alfalfa crop, and he viewed with deep concern the prospects of its being garnered before another rain should come. Patrick Ryan, who devotes his time to making the Bryan farm productive, began mowing the alfalfa, while two other hands raked it into haystacks.

A "large, sweet, juicy Gudaloupe Triumph watermelon" is on its way from Seguin, Texas, to Fairview. Notice of its shipment came in a letter from J. H. Vaughan of that place, who mentions eight other admirers of Mr. Bryan who have taken a hand in the development and shipment of the melon. Dr. Vaughan in his letter says:

"It is our hope that its flavor may be the sweetness of victory; that its size may be illustrative of the Democratic vote in November, and that each seed may represent a Bryan voter in the electoral college."

The writer adds that the melon was "raised especially for you by Mr. Y. A. Maddox, who is a great admirer of the Democratic leader."

CLEVELAND EULOGIZED

Both Factions Unite in Adoption of Resolutions.

Denver, July 8.—The presentation of resolutions of respect to the memory of Grover Cleveland brought to the front two notable figures, Judge Parker of New York, the Democratic candidate of four years ago, and former Governor Francis of Missouri, one of the surviving members of the Cleveland cabinet. The resolutions as adopted emanated from Mr. Bryan's friends and were presented by I. N. Dunn of Nebraska, who will make the nominating speech for Bryan. They were no sooner read than shouts of "Parker, Parker," showed the generous temper of the convention towards the former leader. Judge Parker was prevailed upon to mount the platform, where, with resonant voice, he read his own resolutions of tribute to Mr. Cleveland, closing with a tactful concession to the Bryan forces by seconding the resolutions presented by them. Mr. Francis' tribute to his former chief breathed the spirit of personal association and deep admiration. With the adoption of the resolutions the convention adjourned until today noon.

The resolutions follow:

"As it pleased the Ruler of the Universe to remove from our midst Grover Cleveland, late president of the United States, who was three times the candidate of the Democratic party, be it

"Resolved, That we, as the delegates of the party in national convention assembled, recognize in him one of the strongest and ablest characters known to the world's statesmanship, who possessed to an extraordinary degree the elements of leadership, and by his able, conscientious and forceful administration of public affairs, reflected honor upon his country and his party; and

"Resolved, That we hereby express our deep sorrow at his death and extend our warmest sympathy and condolence to his family, and that this resolution be spread upon the records

PERMANENT CHAIRMAN CLAYTON'S ADDRESS

omic changes. The successful prosecution of one device to evade the law immediately develops another device to accomplish the same purpose. What is needed is not sweeping prohibitions of every arrangement, good or bad, which might tend to restrict competition, but such adequate supervision and regulation as will prevent any restriction of competition from being to the detriment of the public, as well as such supervision and regulation as will prevent other abuses, in no way connected with restriction of competition.

"This is an admission of failure, and one does not need to dwell on this admission further than to say that the imprisonment of those who violate the law would have had a more salutary effect than all that has been done or might have been done in this direction during his entire administration. "The Democratic party will strike down special privileges, whether granted through a high protective tariff, or granted to government chartered corporations by permission of law. All trusts owe their birth and their ability to continue existence to one or the other of these two forms of special privilege. No private monopoly, no business approximating private monopoly, in methods of its manufacture, can endure without one or the other."

The recent panic and the causes which led to the Aldrich bill were treated exhaustively, and a review given of the failures of congress to pass many important measures which were recommended by the president. Regarding the president's failure to call an extra session, Mr. Clayton pointed out that the Democratic leader of the house, authorized by all his party associates, repeatedly offered to support the measures, but that Republican support was not forthcoming, and that it was simply a play for Republican votes. Federal usurpation of power was severely scored in the following language:

"The president is upon an embankment. If he violates the law, men everywhere know it. If he does not himself respect it to the full extent, he robs it of the reverence that might be willingly bestowed by others. In this same overbearing spirit he has placed and kept in office men who were not appointed by and with the advice and consent of the senate. He has influenced or attempted to influence courts and juries in the administration of public justice, not only by doctoring who should and who should not be prosecuted, but by packing known his personal feelings or sympathies between the prosecution and the accused. He has saddled judges for their interpretations of the law. It was therefore timely and appropriate that the Republican party at Chicago should have declared that it will uphold at all times the authority and integrity of the courts."

"He has constantly cried out for more power on the part of the federal government at the expense of the powers reserved to the states. In his speech at Harpersburg, in October, 1906, he told of easy methods for increasing the power of the federal government. The method provided in the constitution was too cumbersome, slow and uncertain for him. There he let the country into the secret of his short cut to increasing the federal power in these words: 'We need through judicial interpretation and construction to increase the power of the federal government.'"

"Mr. Root, when the president is said to have called 'any secretary followed this Harvard expression by a speech at New York, in which he said: 'Sooner or later construction will be found to use power where it will be exercised by the national government.'"

"Of course many people are not surprised at any opinion the president uttered; he has so many of them and has expressed them on so many conceivable and non-conceivable occasions. Now, Secretary Root is an able lawyer and a man of trained and deliberate habits of thought. Nothing shows more plainly the demoralization wrought by the president than the fact that this trained lawyer, in the very front rank of his great profession, should advocate changing the organic law of the union by construction to the benefit and to the detriment of whom? By the very men who are to exercise the power. The traditions of the constitution are not to be tampered with. The suggestion of his chief, is that where authority is not granted, which in the opinion of the executive, ought to have been granted, this authority is none the less to be exercised, and if no other basis for it can be found it is to be based upon construction to the benefit of the president. In other words if the constitution has not conferred the power upon the executive, then the power is to be vested in him by construction to the benefit of the president. This is a very novel method of increasing the power of the federal government."

"Representative institutions must be preserved, our federal government of delegated and limited powers must be maintained in all its constitutional vigor, and each state must be preserved with all of its reserve powers, and its integrity and autonomy for ever. Therein is the safety of the Union and the states, one indivisoluble and the other indestructible. Democratic Duty.

"We know there is a brighter prospect, if the love of country and liberty is still strong in the hearts of the American people; if an oath to support the constitution is now considered by them as binding; if the people are in earnest in their protests against the rule of insolent wealth, the unauthoritative and harmful influence of corporations and the exactions of the trusts; if the manliness of the fathers have been transmitted to the sons; and the fourth of next March will mark the advent of the Gladsome Light of Democracy and the beginning of the return to constitutional government, honestly and economically administered. To the banner we raise here we invite all citizens of our common country who revere the noble traditions of the past and who deplore the grave aberrations of the present. Let us see to it that this standard shall once again float over a government resting on lasting foundations."

"Mr. Chairman, delegates and fellow countrymen: The time and the occasion in our national affairs impose a duty we cannot, if we would, evade. We must go out from this hall with one heart and a determination to put our loved ship of state on an even keel. That keel has been too long beating the air. We must bring it down into the deep and abiding waters of the constitution."

CHAS. MURPHY CALLS CAUCUS

NEW YORK TO MAKE PREFER-ENCE KNOWN THIS AFT-ERNOON.

Bryan Men Confident That Vote of State Will Be Cast for the Nebraskan.

Denver, July 8.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon the New York delegation will hold a caucus to reach a long-delayed decision as to which candidate for the presidential nomination shall receive the big block of 78 votes from the Empire state. The caucus has been called by Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall and chairman of the delegation. The adherents of Mr. Bryan still claim that New York will vote for the Nebraskan, while the opposing forces are hopeful that the decision may help them in their effort to block a nomination on the first ballot. Mr. Murphy maintains the same sphinx-like silence which has characterized his attitude ever since his arrival in Denver.

A spirit of conciliation, it is said, still pervades the Tammany delegation. As an evidence of this it is pointed out that Judge Alton B. Parker, who was reported as coming to Denver as the representative of New York state in a fight against the adoption of an anti-injunction plank, went into the session of the convention committee on resolutions to advocate an anti-injunction plank which is declared to have been drawn by Samuel Compers himself, and which formed a part of the tentative platform put forth by the New York delegation. Lewis Nixon was chairman of the sub-committee of the New York delegation that brought this about and it is the best of the delegation that they have conciliated the radical, conservative and labor interests all at once, and that they have put forth a strong bid for the far western vote by advocating a sufficient increase in the naval establishment to maintain a fleet on both coasts. A number of the state conventions in the west advocated such a plank in the platform of both parties, but the New York people say the west was ignored in this respect by the silence of the Republicans. Altogether, the New York delegation displays a feeling of contentment with its position at the convention, despite the criticism that has been uttered because of its failure to express a preference as to the presidency. It is also said that a fourth caucus may be held after the nomination of a presidential candidate to decide where the support of the state shall be thrown in the vice presidential contest.

DAVID B. FRANCIS,
One of Cleveland's Cabinet Members,
Who Paid Tribute to Former Chief.

LONG DENIES

THAT HE LEFT FORMER WIFE

CLAIMS THAT HIS ACTIONS IN PAST YEAR ARE ABOVE REPROACH.

Letter Recalls Romance Which Developed Two Years Ago—Mr. Long's Statement.

Advocate readers will doubtless remember a story published in this paper exclusively about a year ago dealing with the remarkable romance of Mrs. Alice Niel and Mr. Simon Long, both former Hebron people. Those two were childhood sweethearts in Luray, a village on the interurban line between Newark and Columbus. That was years ago. Both married. Mr. Long's wife living but a short time after the wedding. Then he married again, but was divorced from his second wife, who is said to be living in Chicago.

During all of this time the sweetheart of his youth was living happily in Hebron with her husband, Mr. Neil, and had a number of children. Finally Mr. Neil died and it was soon after his death that Mr. Long returned to Hebron and renewed the affection of his first sweetheart. They lived together for some time in very comfortable circumstances, and to all appearances agreeably and happily. But several months ago—a year ago last September—Mr. Long left for parts unknown. Later the report reached Hebron that he had gone back to the Chicago woman. Since that time little has been heard of Mr. Long, until Tuesday, when the following letter was received by the Advocate, purporting to come from Mr. Long:

Mr. Adv. Iowa.

Editor, The Newark Advocate:—I would thankfully solicit space in the columns of your most worthy paper to correct a report that has been circulated in and around Hebron, O., that I left that town, county and former wife for the purpose of living with another woman. In due respect to my friends in Licking county, I wish to state that this report is absolutely false. I left there for personal reasons, and that the parties interested well know, and have made my home with as good a woman as ever lived (my mother), and can give day and date of my whereabouts ever since I left Ohio, and defy contradiction of it being other than a perfectly legitimate life.

S. J. LONG.

Editor, The Newark Advocate:—I would thankfully solicit space in the columns of your most worthy paper to correct a report that has been circulated in and around Hebron, O., that I left that town, county and former wife for the purpose of living with another woman. In due respect to my friends in Licking county, I wish to state that this report is absolutely false. I left there for personal reasons, and that the parties interested well know, and have made my home with as good a woman as ever lived (my mother), and can give day and date of my whereabouts ever since I left Ohio, and defy contradiction of it being other than a perfectly legitimate life.

CONSTABLE

WILL AGAIN TRY TO TAKE S. B. SUTTLES BACK TO VILLAGE OF CENTERBURG.

Carries a Revolver as Large as a Cannon and a Big Mice—Some Excitement.

Constable S. J. Gould of Centerburg, is leading a life full of excitement these days. He is again in the city to take S. B. Suttles back to the Knox county burg on a charge of jumping a board bill.

The officer marched down the street with a mace as big as a ball bat and an old .48 calibre army pistol a yard long, with 12 inches of the barrel in view below the bottom of his coat.

Suttles was taken into custody on South Fourth street and the constable took him to the interurban station intending to take the car to Granville, but the prisoner made some resistance and the local police were persuaded to lock the man up for the third time in the city prison.

The constable became incensed on two of his visits to the city and he declared before a crowd, "By caw! I'm goin' to take that feller back this time or bust."

It is claimed that Centerburg is a dry town and the constable's thirst is so great that he can not resist the temptation in a city. The police promise to jug the constable
